CATHÉDRALES HERMÉTIQUES

In her work, Laurence Aëgerter explores strategies and creates systems that give new meaning to existing images - historical and contemporary sources from our shared memory. Ten years ago, she started a series of works entitled Cathédrales, extended by Cathédrales Hermétiques designed in three parts, the last of which was completed in 2023 on the occasion of a photographic commission from the Centre des Monuments Nationaux de France. Exhibited at the Rencontres d'Arles in 2019, This long-running corpus, dialogue with the history of architecture and the history of art, transcends time.

Cathédrales, 2014

Cathédrales is a series of photographs drawn from Aëgerter's artist's book of the same name, published by RVB Books (Rencontres d'Arles artist Book Prize, 2018). As a starting point, a book, Cathédrales et églises de France, published in the 1950s by the ministry of tourism to promote spiritual architecture in France. The artist opens it to the double central page of the Gothic cathedral of Bourges, displays it in her studio and invites the Sun to come and skim its reproduction. The protocol is extremely accurate : every minute for two hours Laurence Aëgerter captures the movement of the sun and the shadow of the window as it gradually covers the reproduction until the cathedral vanishes into darkness.

The Cathédrales series, comprising 126 shots, engages the viewer in an exercise of contemplation and patience. Time unfolds before our eyes.

While the book engages the viewer to interact with the passing of time, the large-scale of the photographs (63.5 x 100 cm) underlines the monumentality of the subject. Each unique print reflects the idea that every single image in the book is, in the words of the artist, a "small monument to Time".

CATHÉDRALES

Cathédrales hermétiques were born in the continuity of the Cathédrales series. Based on the same archive, Laurence Aëgerter moves away from facades and focuses on three church interiors, spanning ten centuries of architecture, from the Romanesque church Saint-Benoît-sur-Loire to the Gothic church Coutances and until the modern church Sainte-Jeanne-d'Arc, Nice. On the occasion of her exhibition at the Rencontres d'Arles 2019, she includes in this series the three Provençal sisters of Cistercian architecture: Sénanque, Silvacane and Le Thoronet, whose architectural design echoed her meditative quest. In 2023, on the occasion of a photographic commission from the Centre des Monuments Nationaux de France, Aëgerter returns to the abbey of Le Thoronet where she focuses on the third part of the series.

Printed in black and white, and screen-printed with a thermo-reactive ink, the images begin in darkness and are slowly revealed when exposed to sunlight. The heat penetrates the material to better reveal it: the darkroom then exists in daylight.

With this tribute to Claude Monet's majestic series of Cathedrals, whose thirty motifs painted between 1892 and 1893 offer a most plastic experience of light, Laurence Aëgerter draws on the history of art and architecture, as well as the one of photographic technique. The perception of time is apprehended as a living experience of light and matter, where the fleetingness of the present moment confronts the immutability of the past.

LE MIROIR AVEUGLE

Laurence Aegerter
Le miroir aveugle*, 2023

Following on from the photographs Cathédrales and Cathédrales hermétiques, Le Miroir aveugle is part of the artist's visual research into the elusive, the mystery felt in the face of the perpetual phenomenon of the ephemeral.

A silk taffeta curtain hung from a thin brass rod partially obstructs a black-and-white photograph of a mirror. The mirror reflects an indistinct space, a white surface that doesn't appear to be a wall, and which lies plumb against a parquet floor. Le Miroir aveugle reveals tiny clues that lead to a certainty: there was. Life has been there.

The work also refers to certain 17th-century Dutch paintings in which a painted curtain more or less hides the main scene. This illusionary effect allows various subjects - interior scenes (Vermeer, Steen e.g.), religious scenes (Rembrandt e.g.), but especially church interiors (Houckgeest e.g.) - to be revealed to the viewer. The painting also plays its own role, as it was not uncommon at the time to protect a painting from light with a curtain.

« Laurence Aëgerter practices the art of displacement. For many years, she has never stopped reappropriating reality, bypassing it and reinventing it. She takes, fragments, plays with the icons of our collective unconscious, draws her images here and there from the Internet, encyclopaedias, books, reproductions of works of art, in order to give them new life and other spaces of freedom. »

PORTRAIT

Laurence Aëgerter (1972) lives and works between Amsterdam, where she has lived since 1993, and Marseille. She is the winner of the Nestlé International Photography Prize at the Festival Images Vevey 2016, the author's book prize at the Rencontres d'Arles 2018 and of the national photographic commission Performance 2022 from the Ministère de la Culture and the CNAP.

Laurence Aëgerter grew up in a family of antique dealers. As a child, she dreamed of being a detective, police commissioner or a spy. Her passion for investigative work in unfamiliar territory finally took shape halfway between art and anthropology. In the 1990s, she obtained two doctorates in art history, the first at the University of Aix-en-Provence, the second at the Vrije Universiteit in Amsterdam, dedicated in particular to trompe-l'œil in 17th century Flemish painting. In 2001, she began to devote herself to artistic creation and joined the Gerrit Rietveld Academy, from which she graduated in visual arts in 2005. Since then, her work has received international recognition and her works have been included in major public and private collections and exhibited in prestigious institutions. Like her solo show Ici mieux qu'en face on display at the Musée du Petit Palais in Paris in 2020-21 or Epic of the mind at the Museum van de Geest in Haarlem (2023-24), where she exhibits the 38-metre-long tapestry of the same name. In 2023 she takes part in the Épreuves de la matière exhibition at the Bibliothèque Nationale de France, BnF Mitterrand, in Paris. For 2025, she is working on an exhibition as part of the Carte blanche photographique of the Centre des Monuments Nationaux de France.

Through the prism of the human sciences - from history, art history, psychology to neurology - and their multiple iconography - vernacular images, archival images from museum collections or taken from illustrated books and the Internet - Laurence Aëgerter investigates our realities. Sometimes serious, sometimes playful, her works combine appropriation, translation and poetic displacement. They question the signifying power of the images that precede us, succeed us, surround us and pass us by, unconsciously. Laurence Aëgerter's works, whether in the form of an intimate or monumental photographic piece, an in situ installation, a collaborative project or an artist's book, are attempts to answer questions that are shared but whose statement has been commonly forgotten. In this hypersensitivity to images bordering on synesthesia, Laurence Aëgerter invites us to reconnect with our senses, and to conciliate sense and the essence of the world.

Since 2010, Galerie Binome (Le Marais, Paris) is dedicated to contemporary photography. Its program of exhibitions and international fairs opens up to established and emerging contemporary artists exploring the conceptual and formal boundaries of the medium. In search of new forms in photography, and interested in experimentation with the materiality and media of the image, the selection of works establishes dialogues with sculpture and drawing, or with traditional materials such as ceramics and textiles. The definition and expansion of the photographic field are at the heart of the gallery's reflections.

Member of the Comité Professionnel des Galeries d'art, Galerie Binome develops numerous collaborations with personalities from the world of art and photography, curators, private and public institutions. In 2023, its director Valérie Cazin was appointed to the Paris Photo selection committee and in 2024 she joined the Comité d'honneur of the fair, as well as the Comité de pilotage of the fair Polyptyque in Marseille.
